What is Orienteering?

Orienteering is a fun outdoor activity in which runners or hikers use a detailed map and a compass to find their way to checkpoints placed in the woods. Orienteering is for all ages and degrees of fitness and skill. Recreational hikers and walkers can leisurely tour the course while stopping to smell the flowers and observe wildlife, while competitive orienteering involves running from checkpoint to checkpoint through the woods over courses as long as 14 kilometers. It is a sport which challenges both the mind and body.

Orienteering Maps

Orienteering maps are detailed topographical maps usually at a scale from 1:7,500 to 1:15,000 with contour interval of 2.5m to 5m. A careful field survey is made to locate boulders, cliffs, stone walls, streams and marshes on the map. Vegetation is marked as to how much it will slow down a runner.

Most Hudson Valley Orienteering maps are offset printed in 5 colors. A few of our maps are only available as color laser prints, photocopies, or ink jet prints. At times we may substitute color photocopies for offset printed maps.

All our orienteering maps are copyrighted works and may not be reproduced without written permission. Some maps are on private property and may not be open to the general public. Most maps include some developed private areas that should be avoided.

Most HVO events include free beginner's instruction on how to use map and compass.

Permanent (Trim) Courses

HVO has established permanent courses on some of its maps. Orienteers can find some or all of the controls at their leisure. Trim Courses are great for training of just taking a hike with friends you would like to introduce to the sport. These maps with the overprinted courses or photocopied courses and a blank map can be ordered just like our other maps.

1993 World Orienteering Championship Maps

WOW! The maps used for the 1993 World Orienteering Championships are available from HVO. All the WOC93 maps are located in Harriman State Park near Suffern, NY about 35 miles northwest of New York City. WOC '93 maps are owned by the United States Orienteering Federation/U.S. Orienteering Team.
